Hotel & Business School Friesland Consortium for International Hospitality Studies in Friesland.

Friesland College of Vocational Education and Training and Stenden University of Professional Education have Hospitality departments, providing a wide range of programs leading to up-to-date industry-related and recognized qualifications. The two institutes collaborate in a consortium with many international links. International internships and jobs are available for our students and graduates in Hotels and well-known restaurants worldwide.

The International Course in Hospitality Studies at Friesland College is completely in English. It is a fast-track program of two years. After graduation it gives immediate access to the second year of International Hospitality Management at Stenden. (www.stenden.com)

The course focuses on developing strong connections between theory and practice. Students will develop problem-solving skills and creative thinking and three sets of skills: hard skills, soft skills and employability skills.

To view further details on how to apply, course subjects and prices, please visit our website. Please do not hesitate to contact our admission officer Mr. Gerrit Mijkes on the above contact details.
